Answers from the Secretary-General

ANSWER TO QUESTION No. 1:

In the aftermath of the Second World War Eritrea was among those countries who had mature and progressive political activities in Africa. Although Eritrea was "Federated" with Haile Selassie's regime against its wish; the Eritrean people, as much as the Somalis and Libyans (the other ex-Italian colonies) had the capacity and legitimacy to self-rule and independence. Against all odds, now, in the course of 40 years struggle, the Eritrean people have managed to establish an efficient and democratic administrative structure in the liberated areas. The basis for a new and democratic Eritrea is laid down. This positive achievement is attributed to Eritreas's unique historical process, a phenomenom uncommon to other nations.

ANSWER TO QUESTION NO. 2:

By tradition, the E.P.L.F. does not disclose the size of the Eritrean People's Liberation Army (EPLA). The media continues to belittle our capacity and exaggerate the Dergue's, thus portraying a wrong image to the international community. Yes, our respective military capacities will continue to be a mystery to the outside world for a long time to come. But it is not so to the protagonists.
